

TRADERS' GLOSSARY

Buy and Hold — The acquisition of a tradable for the long term.

Cup With Handle — An accumulation pattern observed on bar charts.

Gann Theory — Analytical techniques based on price, time, and pattern to project changes in the markets. Developed by trader W.D. Gann.

In-the-Money (ITM) — A call option whose strike price is lower than the stock or future's price, or a put whose strike is higher than the underlying tradable's price.

Moving Average Convergence/Divergence (MACD) — The crossing of two exponentially smoothed moving averages, plotted above and below a zero line. The crossover, movement through the zero line, and divergences generate buy and sell signals.

Out-of-the-Money (OTM) — A call option whose exercise price is above the current market price of the underlying tradable's contract.

Relative Strength Index (RSI) — An indicator invented by J. Welles Wilder and used to ascertain overbought/oversold and divergent situations.

Seasonality — Consistent change in market activity occurring from consistent and predictable events.

Stop-Loss — The risk management technique in which the trade is liquidated to halt any further decline in value.

Trailing Stop — A stop-loss order that follows the prevailing price trend.
